

ALEXANDRIA, VA. SATURDAY, APRIL 2, 1870

In the Maryland Senate, yesterday, a report was made by the committee which had been appointed to investigate the charges of malfeasance in office made against Mr. Alfred Spates, late President of the C. & O. Canal Company, during his incumbency of that office. The committee submitted a report which was a vindication of the honor and integrity of Mr. Spates, whose character was involved .-This report was unanimously adopted. In the House of Delegates the bill to assign the stock of the State and its management to the preferred bondholders of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal was passed to a third reading.

The bill to abolish all State inspections after the 1st of January, 1872, was passed, with a amendment excepting the Weigher of Live Stock and the Inspector of Hay and Straw.

The Republicans of Washington last night held a celebration of the adoption of the 15th Amendment. Screnades were given to, and speeches made by, President Grant, Vice President Colfax, Senator Sumner, General Fremont, Secretary Fish, and Secretary Boutwell. The President said:

"I can assure those present that no consummation since the close of the war affords me so much pleasure as the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution by three fourths of the States of the Union. I have felt the greatest anxiety ever since I was called to this house to know that this was to be secured. It looked like the realization of the Declaration of Independence. [Applause.] I cannot say near so much on this subject as I would like to, not being accustomed to speak ing, but thank you for your presence this even-

Mr. Morton has introduced a bill in the Sen. ate to punish by fine and imprisonment any person who shall attempt to hinder from voting or control the vote of any one entitled to vote under the laws of the United States, at any election whatsoever. The bill also provides for the punishment of any officer who shall attempt to prevent the registration of a legal voter, and, generally, enforces the Fifteenth Amendment.

The report that President Grant intends, at an early day, to issue a proclamation of general | Governments. annesty, is contradicted. He is, it now said, not disposed to act in the matter at all. But, another statement is, that yesterday "at the Cabinet meeting the President read his proposed message to Congress for the removal of disabilities. The message met with the approval of the members of the Cabinet."

A dispatch from Tuscaloosa, Alabama, says A shooting affray occurred this morning between Ryland Randolph and a man named Smith, a friend of Vaughan's. Smith and Vaughan came in from the University, and while Vaughan remained behind on the opposite side of the street, Smith went to where Randolph was standing, and it is said he cried "stand aside," and drew his pistol. Randolph also drew, when toth fired several shots, Randolph being wounded in the leg. Smith was also slightly wounded. A bystander was killed. Smith and Vaughan were both arrested.

Gen. Sherman has issued an order announcing the abolition of the command heretofore known as the Fifth Military District, and the creation of a separate department with headquarters at Austin, Texas, with Brevet Brigadier General J. B. & O. R. R.—There is a vast deal in the following article, clipped from a Virginia paper, which is true, and for that reason wholesome food for both friend and foe, which I hope you

I have often thought that Virginia and her people might with much propriety not only thank Baltimore and her railroad for the severance of West Virginia, but particularly for the severance of Berkley and Jefferson counties from this commonwealth.

It seems strange that not one foot of that great road was permitted to remain under the jurisdiction of Virginia. The road itself could not be removed; but Virginia, poor and defenceless, could be, should be, severed in twain! So by a rude blow of the political rapier, keen from the grind-stone of corporate avaries, aimed and delivered when Virginia stood shorn of her power, just so much of her body was struck from its home as was necessary to place this far reaching cancer beyond the control of a State which it is sought daily to make tribu-tary to "My Maryland," her one city and her one railroad by and through the means of rail roads, &c., chartered in Virginia-favored with the advantage of home institutions, but belonging to or controlled by foreign interests and unfriendly influences.

Whilst not in lavor of Norfolk as against Alexandria, yet, as a Virginian, I am in favor of Norfolk, or any other Virginia town or city, as against Baltimore, or any other outside burdens of taxation - whose population will not power is needed-whose wealth will not in crease our powers of attack or defence in the great commercial and political struggles which are upon and ahead of us.

"OUR COMMON ENEMY."-The city of Baltimore has voted to subscribe one million of dollars to the completion of the Lynchburg and Danville Railroad. This railroad will finish he connection of Baltimore through the State of Virginia to Danville, and to Columbia, South Carolina; and to Atlanta, Georgia. It is a line by which the city of Baltimore divides what is eft of the State of Virginia into two parts .-For the city of Baltimore now outvotes the State of Virginia in the Orange and Alexandria

Railroad, and virtually owns that work
Virginia has once before been bisected by Baltimore. The State of West Virginia was cut off and made a separate State by the action of Baltimore. Her Baltimore and Ohio railroad -a powerful corporation-did the work. in an evil hour, and under the industricus lobbying of agents who dispensed large monies, (one o them sued the company for $50, 00) the Legislature of Virginia allowed the Baltimore and Ohio Company to make its railroad for hundreds of miles on our territory between Cumberland and Wheeling, and between Grafton and Parkersburg From the moment that this company placed its contractors and laborers on the soil of our State, there was disaffection in West Virginia towards Virginia. And when the war broke out, West Virginia was made to secede and to form a State by herself, under the powerful influence of the Baltimore and Obio Railroad Company. That State may, indeed be called the State of Baltimore. But the greedy city and its greedier corpora tion is not done with Virginia.

"Insatiate archer, will not one suffice?"

The concern have a road under construction running up our Valley from Harper's Ferry, called the Valley Railroad. Mr. Michael Har-man, who has been much of late in Baltimore, f he does not now belong there, is the President of the Valley Railroad. It is well night completed to Strasburg, and will be energetically pushed as far as Salem, in Rosnoko co --The object of Baltimore in constructing that work is to capture from Virginia her noble Valley as she did her Trans-Alloghany coal fields and magnificent Ohio slope.

Nav, she is not content thus to rob Virginia of this precious comain of the Valley. She asks more. Her motto is all, all. And so she has invaded the Piedmont region. She has placed her foot there and said this is fine prop-6 60 the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, and now delies the State vote in the meetings of that corporation. Not content with going to Lenchburg, she is determined to push her dominion on to the fartheres. Southern boundary of the Commonwealth; and in one or two years her cars will be at Danville competing there, one hundred and forty miles in the rear of Richnond, for the trade of Richmond.

Will that satisfy her? Will sha be content to run her Valley road to Salem, and her Piedmont road to Danville? Ch, no. She has agents here to prevent the construction of a railroad from Alexandria to Fredericksburg, in order to prevent the capital of our State from having a continuous railread on a straight line to the capital of the United States. She has the inscience and arregance to say that Vir-ginia shall not permit a railroad to be made on the only ground necessary to be occupied now, to make a straight unbroken road from Rich mond to Washington.

But she has ventured upon a greater piece of insolence. Seeing that she has robbed us of West Virginia; that she is rapidly occupying the Valley; that she has traversed the whole breadth of Piedmont with her railroads, there are some true Virginia people who want to save to the State the Virginia and Tennessee rail-road, running from Lynchburg to Bristol, and projected to Cumberland Cap. They see the necessity of rescuing this road from the clutches of Baltimore, and making it a part of a great east and west road across the whole breadth of the State, from Cumberland Gap to Norfolk.— If the road between Lynchburg and Bristol be not thus appropriated to the benefit of the State, Baltimore, which is buying largely of stock in that company a so, and already exercises a fatal influence in the Virginia Legislature, will, ere many years, have control of that important railroad, and will use it to carry all the trade of our southwest, and coming through our southwest from the direction of the Mississippi, off to her own counting rooms and warehouses. Are there not enough loyal sons of Virginia with heart and courage to resist this slow mur-der of our mother? Is she to be torn, limb by limb, to pieces before our faces? and is there not enough spirit in us to stand forward and to prevent the brutal proceeding? Are we to be onger checked in our effort to save something for Virginia by the wooden heads of Richmond who are waging war upon Consolidation, which is salvation to the State?

We think there are men enough in the Legis lature, and out of it, with spirit, and honesty, to secure to Virginia at least one great line of read, which shall work as a Virginia road for the benefit of Virginia cities, and for the building up of State prosperity.

Let us save something to our State. Let us not permit her to be wholly dismembered. Let us narrowly watch the movements of the lobby which is so active against her, and the motive of the men in her seats of legislation who are so fruitful and full of reasons and arguments that make for the ruin of our State, and the building up of Baltimore.

We must have one line of road devoted to Virginia and her interests. If all others are bought up and have sold themselves out to foreign interests, let us in the name of our good State, of honesty, of loyalty to our mother, of decemey, reserve one great line for the beneut, use, and behoof of Virginia
